

Freedom of information requires us to give equal media time to all opinions. This is guaranteed by our first amendment. Media conglomerates are abrogating this freedom.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of this type of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.
